Miss Clemens Finds Necklace Which She Had Believed Missing

Redding, Aug. 4 .- "Your client must afford us vindication or face us in court," is the purport of a communication sent yesterday by Ralph W. Ashcroft until recently Mark Twain's financial secretary, to John B. Stanchfield, the eminent author's attorney in the suit to recover $3,000 for money loaned Mrs. Ashcroft. Mr. Stanchfield is now motoring in Maine, so that probably some little time will elapse before he can consult with his client and return an answer, provided the course of making a direct reply to the challenge is decided upon. Thus from being on the defensive, in which they were placed by Mark Twain's suit, the Ashcrofts have assumed an aggressive attitude with the probability of a libel consequence in case the vindication de-manded is not forthcoming.

Mr. Ashcroft joined his wife at their Redding home last Saturday. Until he landed at New York on Wednesday he did not know of the attachments levied upon this house and his wife's other house in Farmington. As soon as he had acquainted himself with all the details of the situation he details as he had acquainted himself with all the details of the situation he decided to fight with the primary object of clearing the reputations of himself and wife from the aspersions attendant uppn and following their dismissal from Mark Twain's service. On Sunday he Brew up a letter reviewing the case and formulating his demands to which was added an emphatic declaration that if justice was not done them in the mather property in this town would be adjudged null and void by the courts, and he may decide upon action looking to such a result. However, there is

Ralph W. To understand the matter in its true light, it is necessary to hark back to the summer of 1904, when Mrs. Clemens died in Italy. Mrs. Ashcroft (then Miss Lyon) was Mark Twain's secre-tary. When his wife died, Mark tary. When his wife died, Mark

For two years or more after their mother's death, both girls were in sanatoria most of the time, and the From one who has seen a copy of this letter the writer gained a general knowledge of its contents. There are seven specific demands, all relating to the dominant one for vindication. WIFE JEALOUS OF HER coul

(Special from United Press.) New York. Aug. 4.—While waiting to be arraigned in the Jefferson Market police court today for shooting William B. Craig, lawyer, at the Waldorf last night, Mrs. Neville Castle, the former actress and San Francisco society leader, today declared she had not tried to shoot Craig but had tried to commit suicide and that, in his effort to disarm her the revolver was discharged and he was wounded.

Mrs. Castle's story, as told before her arraignment today, differs materially from the story of Craig. "I did not intend to shoot Mr. Craig last night. That story is absolutely false. When I saw him going up to the rooms of the Rocky Mountain club in the Waldorf last night I pushed my way into the elevator and drew a revolver. I was fully determined to end my life and in his presence I tried to place the revolver in such a position that I could fire a bullet into the property when he selfed my arm my heart when he selzed my arm and began scuffling with me, trying to take the revolver away. Location Will Arouse Curiosity of Business Men and Merchants

Sylvester Z. Poli is going to build a half million dollar theatre in Bridgeport that will seat 2,500 people in order that he may keep abreast with the growth of the city and continue to give to the amusement loving public high grade vaudeville. With that keen foresight that has made him one of the foremost theatrical men of the country. Mr. Poli started the ball rollng today for the finest theatre in New England. He has secured options on five pieces of land, all well located and within a short time he will select the site he believes will be the best for his business.

When it is said that he will build a half million dollar theatre it mean that a large portion of the cost will be for the land. He has one or two sites where the price of theatre and land might bring the cost of the play house and its site down to $375,000. But no matter where he decides to locate the theatre, the cost of the building will be at least $120,000.

Mr. Poli said this morning: "I have been working for seven months to secure a location for a new theatre n order that I may be able to accommodate my present patrons and pro-vide for the growth of the city. The house I intend to build will be one of the finest I have ever erected. It will seat 800 more people than my present theatre in Bridgeport.
